3 Discussion of the current situation of the editorial work

Number and quality of manuscripts submitted to SJPHC is sufficient. Compared to last year a few more manuscripts are submitted. Manuscripts are focused on subjects as GP and the elderly, the consultation process, well child examinations, and epidemiology.

The change of the editorial system:

The manuscripts already in the the system will be dealt with in the old system. New manuscript wil be dealt with in the new system. No manuscripts wil e transferred from one system to the other.

Transistion is expected to run smoothly.

Situation with the reviewers: Most of the national editors experience problems and difficultiesfrom time to time. It is often necessary to invite 10 or more reviewers to get acceptance to review from two. The success rate recruiting reviewers may be as low as 15-20%.

Any problematic papers: We only seldom experience SJPHC is “last resort”. On few occasions we have experienced cases of self-plagiarism and papers of very low quality. We tend to avoid rejection without external review when authors are a member of one of the societies. On the other hand we do not want to annoy reviewers with papers of too low quality.

4. Paper of the year 2015 and 2016

We agreed on selection procedure. The 10 most cited papers are selected. However, special procedure was exercised regarding papers published in the last issue of 2016 due to short time to gain citations. Helena pass selected paper to the assessment committee appointed among professor of general practice.
